

Dear Parents,

We had a wonderful time celebrating World Book Day on Thursday and it was great to see everyone dressed up. We launched the day with an assembly where we talked about reading for pleasure and the fun that can come from being immersed in a book. Everyone also had a chance to stand up and share their costume with the school; we had a number of Harry Potters, Julia Donaldson characters, Where's Walleys, princesses, dragons and more. Thank you for your support with this and for attending the bookfair.

It was lovely to see so many parents this week attending parent consultations. I hope it provided a useful opportunity to discuss your child's learning.

Music performances

We have started a series of music performances in assemblies as we do every year. This provides a chance for those children who learn instruments to perform in front of an audience and, I'm sure, to inspire many to go on and take up an instrument in the future.

On Monday this week we had performances from those who learn guitar and ukulele, whilst on Wednesday it was the turn of our brass players.

I would like to extend a huge well done to everyone who performed. They did so with such confidence and skill and it was a lovely to see the music enjoyed by the children and the performers' guests alike. Next week it will be the turn of our pianists and drummers.

Drumming workshop

On the subject of drums, next Wednesday afternoon we have an exciting workshop for everyone in Key Stage 2 as we welcome Jeff Rich, world famous drummer from Status Quo, who will be coming to our school to deliver a drum and percussion masterclass. The workshop will be hands on and children will be invited to play different drums, with Jeff giving a short history of the instrument, a tour of the kit and then of course playing some drum solos for the children to show them how it's done! We can't wait.

I hope you enjoy a lovely weekend.
